

Review Problems for Exam 2 – Math 1060

Exam is Tuesday, November 9 in class

Please refer to your text, class notes, worksheets and quizzes as you prepare for Exam 2. Additionally you should refer to the course web page (<http://courses.math.uconn.edu/math-1060/>) for help by clicking on the Learning Activities tab for videos that you can use for review. Use your calculator appropriately; on the exam, you may not use a calculator, and all work that leads to the answer must be included in order to earn credit.

The problems listed are odd-numbered problems which will enable you to determine right away if your answer is correct. If you have the student solutions manual, you can see the step-by-step solutions that will provide additional support. You can make a note of any items that may be problematic and ask your instructor to review those problems during in-class exam review. Exam information is posted on the common course web page and can be accessed by clicking the Exam Info tab.

Below is a suggested list of practice problems for review. This is extensive and meant to be a thorough review. Exam items will not necessarily be exactly like the problems listed, however, exam items will cover the concepts that are reflected in the problem set. It is worth noting at this time that the final exam is cumulative.
